LINDBERGH TODAY IS RECEIVED BY MARSHAL FOCH

Youthful American Flier Is Greeted by Entire Family Of the Marshal

Lindbergh Arrives at Precisely The Minute of The Appointment

By Harry R. Flory

PARIS, May 26.—The French welcome for Captain Charles A. Lindbergh first to succeed in a New York to Paris flight, has gradually developed until today it has taken on the aspects of a pro-American demonstration.

Lindbergh's modest and thoughtful conduct has done much to increase the French respect for Americans, and whereas a few days ago Americans in Paris were often times subjected to leers and jeers, today they are treated in most friendly fashion.

The one continuous demonstration and jubilation over Lindbergh's success is reaching a climax today, for it is Ascension Day and thousands of workers who have heretofore been unable to greet Lindbergh, are having a holiday and are preparing to line the Champs Elysee and the Rue de Rivoli to see his triumphal procession to the city hall where he will be given the keys of the city.

Lindbergh will ride through the streets in an open carriage, escorted by the President of the municipal council and Ambassador Herrick, with a troop of French cavalry, brilliant in dress uniforms, clattering along as an escort. Five hundred invitations have been issued for the city hall reception, but there has been a demand for hundreds more and the police anticipate huge crowds.

Punctuality is inscribed heavily in the lexicon of this youth, for at 10.10 this morning the appointed hour he arrived at the home of Marshal Foch to pay his respects. Lindbergh was warmly greeted by Foch and the entire Foch family.

Marshal Foch, wore his American distinguished service medal in honor of the occasion.

"I congratulate you for having shown what a young man can accomplish when he organizes well what he sets out to do," said Marshal Foch.

Lindbergh observed in an aside to the correspondents that "Foch is certainly a grand old man."

After an interesting conversation with Marshal Foch, Lindbergh then went to call on "Papa" Joffre, and again he was greeted not only by the field marshal but by the entire family Joffre.

"I never can forget my visit to the United States in 1917," said "Papa" Joffre, "and to have it returned by you touches me profoundly. The entire French nation is happy and proud over your success."

King George will receive Captain Charles A. Lindbergh in audience on Monday. It was announced officially today.

The King's reception is expected to be informal and it is believed that the Prince of Wales will be present and the American youth will be invited to join with the monarch in an informal chat about aviation.

London is preparing to make Lindbergh's visit a gala occasion.

Red Paper Poppies Are Being Sold Here Now

Red paper poppies are being sold throughout Bristol during this week and will be sold on Memorial Day by the Women's Auxiliary of the Robert W. Bracken Post No. 382, American Legion.

Assisting the auxiliary members are some of the Bristol school children and members of the Boy Scout troops.

Each year the money derived from the sale of the poppies is used to benefit the disabled soldiers. In some of the sales conducted in previous years the poppies were made of a silk-like material. This year only the paper ones are being sold throughout Pennsylvania, under the auspices of the American Legion, for the benefit of the disabled ex-service men. These have been made by these men, and they will derive benefits from each one sold.

Every resident of Bristol should wear one of these dainty little flowers and help those who suffered during the World War, and who still are suffering from the effects of injuries.

COMMISSIONERS OKEH HIGHWAY RELOCATION

Dangerous Pipersville Curve Will Very Likely Be Eliminated Soon

OTHER IMPROVEMENTS

DOYLESTOWN, May 26.—Motorists will welcome the announcement that the dangerous Pipersville curve and hill along the Lackawanna Trail north of here will in all probability be eliminated.

In session the County Commissioners examined a blue print of the proposed relocation of that section of Route No. 156 in Bedminster township and approved the proposed change. Some time ago the State Highway Department was asked to eliminate both the hill and the curve at Pipersville because of the extremely dangerous condition of both for automobile traffic. The department immediately consented to do the work if the county of Bucks would secure the right of way to make the change.

The latest development is that the plans will now be sent back to Harrisburg with the approval of the County Commissioners and it is likely that the state will start making the change in a short time. The new relocation will be over part of the route of the old trolley line starting south of Pipersville curve at a point about a quarter of a mile south of the hotel and will cut across, eliminating the curve and hill to a point near the county bridge at the bottom of the Pipersville hill. The bridge will still be used.

The Commissioners yesterday directed the appropriation of $7621.87 for 1927 and 1928 for the use of the Mothers' Assistance Fund of Bucks County.

An agreement was signed with the city of Philadelphia for the improvement of the County Line road between Philadelphia extending from the old Somerset pike 2008 feet west to the Montgomery County line and agreed that Bucks County would pay one-half of the cost of the road which is adjacent to Southampton township.

Agreements were signed yesterday with contractors and other mechanics for the erection of a new double dwelling house on the Bucks County Home property. Roy Randall, of Willow Grove, has the contract to erect the dwelling; John J. Ruffe and Sons, Doylestown, plumbing; A. R. Halderman, Doylestown, heating; Charles B. Meyer, Doylestown, electricity.

The Commissioners decided to appeal from the award of the jury of view in the case of Howard Thompson for damages to his farm in Middletown township as a result of the relocation and widening of the Lincoln highway.

A petition was received from the residents of Riegelsville borough protesting against a proposed relocation of the Lackawanna Trail or Route No. 156. The petition was filed by the Commissioners.

The County Engineer was instructed to prepare plans and specifications for the recovering of the walls of the large court room in the Court House with cloth and varnishing the woodwork.

An appropriation of $600 was made to Company D, 111th Infantry, Doylestown, for expenses during the year.

The bread contract for the Bucks County Prison was awarded to the Moore Bread Company of Philadelphia, after bids had been received and opened.

MESSRS. HOFFMAN AND SHAFFER, RETIRING HIGH SCHOOL FACULTY MEMBERS, HONORED AT BANQUET

Two Men Were Held In High Esteem By Those Associated With Them In Bristol — Are Presented With Gifts

TWO retiring members of the Bristol high school faculty—Roy Hoffman and Robert Shaffer—were singularly honored last night when 125 members of the Fathers' Association and their friends tendered them a testimonial banquet in the high school auditorium.

The affair was a spontaneous demonstration of affection and esteem which the men of the community have for these two young instructors.

The banquet was arranged within the past 10 days and was almost entirely managed by the men, served by the men and participated in by the men.

There were four long tables arranged at one end of the auditorium and at these the diners were seated. At the conclusion of the serving of a tempting menu a fine program of entertainment and speech making was enjoyed.

John H. Brehm led the singing and the high school orchestra favored with instrumental selections.

John H. Hardy was toastmaster and in paying tribute to the two honored guests stated that Mr. Hoffman had put high school athletics where those interested in the schools had for many years hoped to see them.

The toastmaster also spoke well of "Bob" Shaffer whom he said he had not known as long as he had been acquainted with Hoffman, but that both of these men had given their best to the Bristol schools.

Two vocal selections were given by Ernest Gamble, Langhorne. He was accompanied by William G. Buckman on the piano.

Superintendent Howard E. James told of the regret he felt at the two leaving the Bristol schools. He expressed the belief that their positions would be filled but not their places in the community.

In his talk Mr. James revealed the fact that for the first time in local high school athletics the season would end with a substantial balance in the treasury. "At present there is a balance of $600 and all bills to date have been paid."

Mr. James also said that he greatly regretted the leaving of Miss Jones, teacher of domestic science and sewing. "The exhibit in the windows of merchants tells plainly the character of work which Miss Jones is doing."

CROYDON SCHOOL TO BE DEDICATED SATURDAY

Exercises To Be Preceded By Big Street Demonstration

SOCIETIES TO TAKE PART

Saturday is to be a gala day in Croydon, when the recently erected public school building will be fittingly dedicated.

A parade will be one of the main features with the school children and several organizations in the line of March. Following this there will be a well-rounded program presented at the site of the new structure, the exercises taking place out-of-doors if weather permits.

The school building is a six room structure, and sessions have been held in it for the past several weeks. The erection of this building has relieved much congestion.

The parade will commence at 1.30 p. m., from the Croydon railroad station, Newport Road and Bristol Pike. Those in the group will be joined at State Road and Cedar avenue by the school children of the Croydon section.

It was announced today by Mr. George Zarr, superintendent of Bristol Township public schools, that the following would participate in the parade:

Chief Constable of Bristol Township, Thomas Crawford, and his aides; members of the township school board; school children; members of the Croydon Fire Company, and members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the same; Knights of the Ku Klux Klan; members of the Croydon Lutheran and the Croydon Community Methodist Churches; the K. K. K. band; Holy Name Society members; and the St. Francis Industrial School Band of 100 pieces.

After marching through the principal streets of Croydon, the line will be broken up at the school grounds, when the exercises will commence.

The program follows: Singing, "America," audience; invocation, Rev. George C. Shoop, pastor of the Croydon Methodist Church; "Lincoln's Gettysburg Address," John Pearce; exercises by the public school children; recitation, "The Blue and the Gray," Eleanor McNett; address, Mayor Thomas B. Stockham, of Morrisville; flag presentation by the K. K. K.; acceptance of presentations by Arthur G. Wilkinson, president of the township school board; song, "Star Spangled Banner," audience; benediction, Rev. Berner, pastor of the Croydon Lutheran Church.

Those in charge of the affairs of the day have worked hard to make the day one of interest and benefit, and it is thought that many of the populace of the town to the south of Bristol will be present to witness the ceremonies.

Legion Will Attend The Services At Zion Lutheran

Rev. Paul Ronze, pastor of the Zion Lutheran Church, Jefferson avenue and Wood street, has extended an invitation to members of Robert W. Bracken Post to attend memorial services in his church on Sunday evening, May 29th, at 7.30 p. m. As it has always been the practice of Bracken Post to attend such services the invitation was gladly accepted and members and friends of the Post as well as all ex-service men now residing in Bristol are urged to meet at the Post rooms on Cedar street at 7.00 p. m. daylight saving time, from which point they will move in a body to the church.

As this is the tenth observance of Memorial Day since our entry into the World War and the service is being held just one day before Memorial Day it is hoped a large turnout will be had. Set this evening aside and be counted among those present.

—Miss Mary Mahan, of 927 Cedar street, was a guest over Saturday and Sunday of Miss Winnifred Rush, of Philadelphia.

—Mr. Frank Burns, of Philadelphia, was a Tuesday guest of his nieces, Mrs. Harry Halpin, of 318 Hayes street, and Mrs. Alfred McLaughlin, of 1011 Pond street.

MEMORIAL DAY TO BE OBSERVED HERE IN PROPER FORM

Sons of Veterans and Legion Are To Join In The Observance

IN THE SUBURBS, TOO

Tullytown, Cornwells Cemeteries Are To Be Visited

Sunday, members of Robert W. Bracken Post No. 382 and Bugle Corps along with Bristol Post Sons of Veterans will journey to both Tullytown and Cornwells to pay their respects to the departed veterans of 1865 and 1918. Members of the American Legion and all ex-service men now in Bristol are requested to join in these services and are asked to meet at the Post Rooms on Cedar street. Members of the Sons of Veterans and G. A. R. desiring to attend should meet at the Post Rooms of the Sons of Veterans. Legion will assemble promptly at 12.30 p. m., daylight saving time at their respective headquarters.

The observance of Memorial Day this year is going to be a banner one if the expectations of the Sons of Veterans and American Legion are realized. The plans so far divulged are that members of the two organizations will meet at their respective places of meeting at 8.30 a. m., daylight saving time. The members of the American Legion and all ex-service men in Bristol and vicinity should set this Memorial Day aside to show their respect to the memory of their buddies who sacrificed all just ten years ago and it is hoped by the officers of the Legion that service men, though not members of the organization will join with them in this observance.

All citizens of Bristol are requested and urged to display the national colors at half mast from sun rise until 12 noon and at full mast from 12 noon until sun down. The proper way to set your flag at half mast is to first raise the flag to the top of the staff or pole and then lower it to the half mast point.

The route of parade will be Cedar street (Legion Home where both organizations and friends will join) to St. James's Churchyard; Wood street to Walnut to Methodist Graveyard at Pond and Walnut streets; Pond street to Jefferson avenue to Wood street to Lincoln avenue to Upper St. Mark's Cemetery; Lincoln avenue to Radcliffe street to Mill street to Otter to Bristol Cemetery to lower St. Mark's Cemetery. Services will be held in all cemeteries and prominent clergymen of Bristol will speak. After services in St. Mark's Cemetery both organizations will return via Otter street to Mill street to Cedar street to their respective headquarters where luncheon will be served as usual by the Ladies' Auxiliaries.

The point cannot be stressed too firmly that on this the tenth observance of Memorial Day since our entry into the World War all veterans should turn out and show that they have not forgotten their buddies who went West. It is their duty and an obligation owed them.

Sons of Veterans and G. A. R. members will on Sunday assemble at Washington Hall, Radcliffe and Walnut streets, at 1.30 p. m., and from that point go to Tullytown in automobiles and join the Bracken Post members. At the lower end of the borough they will be met by the Tullytown school children, who will accompany the men to the graveyards of Tullytown. The speakers there will be the Rev. Francis J. S. Morrow, pastor of the Tullytown Methodist Church, and the Rev. Earle Criswell, pastor of the Tullytown Christian Church. The school pupils will participate in the services.

The Bristol men will then make their way to Cornwells, where the address of the day will be made by the Rev. E. C. Griffiths, pastor of the Cornwells Methodist Church. The Sunday School scholars will assist with the service in that town.

In Bristol on Monday the first stop will be at St. James's graveyard, where services will take place; then the Sons of Veterans will conduct a brief service at the Methodist graveyard, Pond and Walnut streets. The others in the line of march will halt at this spot and await the return of the Sons of Veterans. The entire group will then move up Pond street to Jefferson, to Wood, to Lincoln and then the Legionnaires will be in charge of the memorial service at St. Mark's Churchyard.

The Sons of Veterans are then scheduled to take the lead, and at the Bristol Cemetery will hold another service. The speaker at the Bristol Cemetery will be the Rev. Paul R. Ronze, pastor of the Zion Lutheran Church.

The last service will be under the leadership of the Bracken post members, and the speaker will be the Rev. Howard L. Zepp, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

The members of the Grand Army of the Republic will be taken to the various graveyards in autos, and the Sons of Veterans will be accompanied by the Tetonka Band, of Bridesburg.

SCIENTISTS OF THE AIR

Why did intrepid explorers give up their lives in an effort to reach the North Pole? And, after Peary at last attained the goal on foot, why did Byrd and Amundsen brave icy blasts to fly over it, the one in an airplane, the other in an airship? Of what possible use is polar exploration to mankind?

The answers to these questions, which must surely have puzzled many, are given by a German organization which rejoices in the formidable name "International Society for the Study of the Arctic with the Airship."

One of its officers proved conclusively that the arctic explorer, so far from being a mere daredevil who courts death by cold and starvation, is in reality a research scientist, and comparable as such with the physicist who seeks to discover in a comfortable laboratory why the firefly has a luminous efficiency of 98 per cent, and the best man-made lamp an efficiency of less than three.

Without a thorough knowledge of arctic air circulation it is impossible to understand the climatic vagaries of the more densely populated areas of this globe. Indeed, long-range weather forecasting is partially dependent on more definite knowledge of arctic meteorology, geography and sea currents than is now possessed.

A detailed knowledge of the arctic is necessary for other reasons even more practical. The airship of the future, in following the shortest route between the continents in the northern hemisphere, will fly over the pole. Byrd and Amundsen blazed the air-trail for aerial argosies to come.

ACTS OF A SCHOOL BOARD

Any publicity is good publicity seems to be the slogan of the school directors and teachers of Jeffersonville, Ind. They got from page recently when they forbade a child to attend school in knickers. For this absurdity they were laughed at by the civilized world. But they are crying for more. The fact that their fame was due to the amusement they caused does not matter. Apparently they believe it is better to be laughed at than not to be noticed at all.

When courts ordered the teachers and board of education to admit the girl, knickers and all, everybody thought the incident was closed. However, the directors and teachers, determined to give the world another good laugh, have sued the girl, her mother, lawyer and bondsman for $5600 damages for "exposing the school authorities to public ridicule and demoralizing the schools."

The first action was funny enough, but the second puts the authors in a place with the professional wags. Either they have a sense of humor or are blissfully ignorant of what the public was laughing at. What tickled society's funnybone was not the girl's successful fight for the right to wear knickers, but the idea of school directors fighting with a little girl of 9 over the propriety of wearing knickers in school.

If it were not unbelievable that anybody intruded with the arministration of public schools or the instruction of young Americans should be guilty of such conduct one might suspect that the new court proceedings were inspired by a revengeful feeling.

"Knowing thyself" isn't much use unless you can convince others.

"MATINEE LADIES," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Ward, working his way through college, earns money as a dancing partner for new women in a fashionable New Jersey road-house. Bob thinks it isn't a way to make a living, but he can't be choosier! At the Inn he sees the prettiest, sweetest girl he has ever laid eyes on—Sally, the cigarette girl. Reciprocating his interest, she warns him against the mysterious and beautiful Mrs. Hammond, habitué of the Inn, who finds her "thrill" in Bob—she is the hunter, not the hunted! Then she and Sally scent enemies in each other.

CHAPTER IX.

On the afternoons when she favored the Palsado Inn with her presence, Mrs. Hammond's departure was usually a signal for most of the other women to go also. If men are the monkeys of the human race, then women are the apes. "Follow the leader" psychology, the herd instinct, is better represented in the female sex. So within a comparatively short time after Mrs. Hammond's costly car had slid swiftly away from the embowered portico of the Inn, to disappear into the denseness of the New Jersey Hudson highland wilderness, there was a great whirling of starting motors, and clashing of gears in the big, drab yard of the Inn. One after another the cars shot away—medium-priced to costly, chauffeur-driven in some cases, fair owners at the wheel in others.

Inside, with the going of the last reluctant guest, there was a bustle as the waiters cleared away the afternoon's wreckage and prepared for the night's festivities. The paid dancing entertainers, for whom there was scant need at night—and they were always on tap for that, if Madame Leonine against in the rivalry of Mrs. Hammond—but if Bob did not, well, that was an advantage anyhow.

But just then another voice was injected into the informal "backstage dirt dishing." Mazie Revere had undulated into the room in time to hear enough to understand Bob's last allusion. She said, with that nasty little trick of curling her underlip and pushing up one cynical shouder,

"Say, Bob, Mrs. Hammond could buy and sell the Queen of England—and all the other Queens of Europe put together. Let me whisper something, you lucky big stuff! From what I saw, Mrs. Hammond has fallen for you worse than Jack Johnson fell for Jess Willard. Swell little lovenest apartment and everything—waiting—oh, it's pay day on the Park Avenue ritzy circuit for you, Big Boy!"

Bob, far from finding fun in the joshing, or pleasure in the anticipation of Mrs. Hammond's largesse, was genuinely disturbed and pained. Sally leaped to his defense. Sally, with chipper tosses of her little head, shaking the combed-honey hair around like electric spray, and with sparks flashing from her eyes and her lips.

"Mazie, you've got some nerve to talk to Mr. Ward that way! Why should he care anything about Mrs. Hammond? She's just one of the patrons to him!"

"Say, unless he's a big sap he's hearing the canaries chirping in that love nest already!"

"Mazie, how dare you—"

"How dare I? Say, to whom do you think you're talking, Angel Face? Who gave you any license to speak up for Big Boy, here? He looks big enough to talk for himself!"

"Oh, now, please—Miss Revere—Miss Smith—please—"

But Bob had no chance to be heard. This was strictly a personal fight between Mazie and Sally; with Freddy and Arch amused, with Madame Leonine puzzled, and with Bob upset.

Sally sailed right back to Mazie; "You're giving Mr. Ward a fine opinion of this place the very first day he works here!"

"What's aching you, kid? Afraid it'll smirch your lilywhite wings in his eyes? Say, no Alec big enough to go to college would come here and think he was going to prayer meeting. And, being he's here and got such swell chances to make a killing, he'd be a terrible boob to pass it up. I wouldn't!"

"No, YOU wouldn't!"

Sally, bristling, faced the buxom Mazie as a hantom gamecock might face an eagle. She was almost standing on her tiptoes, so tense was she with excitement and anger.

Madame Leonine, in whom bewilderment had by now been replaced by a comprehension of the situation, stepped between them sarcastically:

"Dry up, you two. I think you've both got a nerve, talking for Mr. Ward!"

Then the Madame smiled benignly; she had much good reason to be content, had the Madame. "I can overlook a lot of foolishness in Sally. She's young and green. But you, Mazie, losing your been over a collar-ad-man—I didn't think you had it in you anymore."

The Madame managed to signal Mazie with a diplomatic wink. Mazie accepted the appeal to reason and subsided in favor of peace; leaving Sally to cool without further aggravation—which Sally did, feeling rather foolish in the process, and casting sly glances at Bob!

Bob, relieved at the cessation of hostilities, breathed easier.

"All ready, let's go!" he said to Freddy and Arch. "Miss Smith is going along now, too. Come on—we'll teach her some of the school yells!"

Full of boyish fun, though shy withal, Bob covered up his bashfulness by taking hold of Sally's arm and starting out with her. Freddy and Arch ranged themselves on either side of the couple.

Yelling a school song at the top of their lusty voices, the three boys fairly lifted birdlike Sally off her feet and swept her to the door—the side, embowered entrance.

"Who'd expect that kid would have gotten so sore over the Prince of Wales. And I've always liked that kid, too. I've steered her around the hard corners, and told her the phoney phone game, and just on account of a good-looking guy she's ready to scratch my eyes out. Can you beat it? But, believe me, she's barking up a wrong tree if she thinks she can buck Mrs. Hammond!"

Mazie, indeed, flailed herself into such a pitch of injured feeling over the apparent ingratitude of her virtual protégée, that she could not help calling after Sally in a most catfish way, just as the little cigarette girl and the boys were going out of the door.

"Take it from me, kid, Mrs. Hammond will get him yet!"

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Scheetz are rejoicing over the birth of a little daughter on Saturday, May 21st.

One evening last week Mrs. Emma Moll entertained at dinner a few friends and relatives in commemoration of the anniversary of her birth.

Last Saturday evening the last pinocle of the tournament was held at the Community House with a large attendance, 22 tables being formed. To Mrs. Elizabeth Hibbert went the first ladies' prize and the first gentlemen's prize was carried away by Clarence Schock.

summoned them by telephone—were preparing to go home.

Madame Leonine came up to Bob, even as Freddy and Arch were joshing him upon his apparent conquest of the rich and famous Mrs. Hammond. To the Madame it was not a matter for levity. She was in heavenly transports. She gushed over Bob like a geyser of gratitude. She congratulated him. She did everything but embrace him, and would have done that, too, if Bob himself had not held her off with his sturdy beld in a laughing way.

"Bob, you are a very lucky fellow. No one else has ever been able to please Mrs. Hammond. She has kept telling me she would come here no longer, if I didn't get some dancing partner she would like."

"She likes 'em big and brutal," laughed Freddy. He and Arch were overjoyed with Bob's success; and in no whit envious. Sworn chums all, the glory of one shed its radiance over the three. They had always been that way, since their freshman year up at good old N. Y. U.

And now, just before she left," confided the Madame with great gusto and satisfaction, "she told me she was coming every afternoon, and made me promise to have you here for her, Bob!"

Sally, who had changed to her street clothes, came into the outer dressing room in time to hear that. She flushed a little, then quickly paled; Bob, seeing her, smiled foolishly.

"They're all making such a silly fuss because Mrs. Hammond danced with me," he explained lamely to Sally. "I can't for the life of me see what all the excitement's about. A body would think she was the Queen of England!"

Sally smiled reassuringly, knowingly, at him; Sally knew deep within her just what she was up

Clean heat

No black kettles to scour!

How much pleasanter cooking is, when there are no black pots and pans to scour afterward! Every woman who cooks with a Perfection Oil Stove is spared that horrid nuisance.

There is never a speck of soot. For in the long chimneys, every drop of oil is completely burned before the heat reaches the cooking.

Perfection flames stay at the height you set them, so you need never fear they will "creep up" and make the kitchen sooty.

Soot, as you know, is half-burned kerosene—just wasted heat. With Perfections you have real fuel economy, as all the oil is changed into cooking heat. They burn only kerosene, the safe household fuel.

Miss Allen says—

"Utensil bottoms are free from soot when cooking is done on the Perfection Stove."

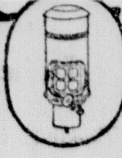

Miss Lucy G. Allen
Principal, Boston School of Cookery.

With Perfection you will have wonderful cooking results, and your utensils will stay shiny as new. See the newest Perfections at any dealer's—1 to 5 burner sizes. Priced from $7.25 to $130.

callous with your finger. It sticks there. Strong as oxen, gentle as can be. The pain stops at once.
Slip shoes on and forget it. Later out comes corn, callous, roots and all. Guaranteed to never fail. Ask
